"Science is the foundation of an excellent medical education, but a well-rounded humanist is best suited to make the most of that education."

—Dr. David Muller, Mt. Sinai Dean of Medical Education

Physical Therapy and English

A minor in English has much to offer those preparing for a career in the health professions:

- Develops strong narrative and communication competencies for applying and holding a job
- Develops cultural competencies for working with a diverse clientele
- Communicates a strong work ethic to prospective employers
- Hones creative and critical thinking skills

ONLY 18 CREDIT HOURS

Choose your own adventure:

1

- Begin with a 2000-level literature course.
- ENGL 1900 gives you an "in." Consider sticking with the same theme.

2250 Conflict, Justice, and Lit
2350 Faith, Doubt, and Lit
2450 Nature, Ecology, and Lit
2550 Gender, Identity, and Lit
2650 Tech, Media, and Lit

2

- Choose 3 courses at the 3000-level.
- Consider writing courses in "Form and Genre" and "Rhetoric and Argument" and literature courses in the "Culture and Critique" category.

ENGL 3730	Intro to Medical Humanities
ENGL 3740	Medicine and Literature
ENGL 3870	Technical Writing

3

- End with two 4000-level courses.
- Elevate your study of some focus in the 2000- or 3000-level with a senior-level course.

4010 New Media Writing
4050 The Craft of Poetry
4130 Literary Theory
4170 American Film History
4190 Topics in Religion and Culture

Department of English
Saint Louis University

Dr. Joya Uraizee,
Acting Director of Undergraduate English Program
undergradenglish@slu.edu
314-977-3910