Rodmell House is a language-based consultancy firm located near Gregorio Marañón and founded by SLU alumni. Our main services include translations, online content writing, editing, blogging, social media and teaching. We also have a blog, Naked Madrid.

What we're offering:

- Two internship positions for the Spring semester

What we're looking for:

- Enthusiasm, initiative and people who -- for lack of a less clichéd expression -- think outside the box

You will be able to request a mix of different tasks in the following categories:

- Writing & Editing
- Translation
- Photography
- Blogging & Social Media
- Marketing & Sales (commission-based opportunities)

Main requirements:

- For writers, we require a minimum of 10 articles per semester to be posted on Naked Madrid and our social media sites. We'll work out the topics together as a team. You'll also be asked to assist us in works for Rodmell House, which can range from proofreading to translating texts.
- For photographers, you will act as an aid to both the Rodmell House and Naked Madrid team, as well as work the social media sites -- Pinterest, Instagram, Facebook, etc. -- to get those photos out there on the web.

What you'll enjoy:

- Building a real portfolio to show to future employers (something not often stressed enough at university).
- Being credited for all your work -- everything will have your name on it and be easily showable to whomever you wish
- Learning how to use WordPress (well)
- Real-work feedback -- you'll track all the “hits”, “likes” and “shares” on all your work and also get constant feedback from us
- Being encouraged to share your work on your own sites (Facebook, Twitter, etc), apart from on ours
- A reason to explore Madrid even more

Conditions:

Hours: minimum 15 hours / week
Where: one day a week in the office, the rest from home/up to you
Pay: 100€ / month stipend for food and travel
