Course Description and Objectives:
This course is designed to explore various parts of East Asia and American strategy to deal with issues we face in the region. The countries we examine primarily include those in Northeast Asia, China, and Southeast Asia. We will discuss the nature of relationship the United States maintains with countries in East Asia and our strategic options mostly in the post-Cold War era. In so doing, we will explore what political ends the country has in Asia and what strategy there is to pursue them.

In this course, we seek to

- explore the past, present, and future of East Asian politics, economy, and security
- gain familiarity with the theoretical literature on US interests in East Asia
- analyze the nature of US relationship with East Asia
- understand the role of power, resources, and ideas in the formation and application of national and regional interests
- investigate a set of strategic options for the United States, and
- hone critical thinking on political events taking place in East Asia

The course is divided into four sections: (1) the past and present (2) American strategy, (3) Northeast Asia and China, and (4) Southeast and South Asia. First, we examine the background of our interests in the region. Second, we explore our strategic choices in East Asia. Third, we discuss strategic options we have in China and Northeast Asia. Lastly, we investigate our relationship with Southeast and South Asia.

Required Texts:

Course Requirements and Grading:
Map quiz: 10% of final grade
The quiz will ask you to point all Asian countries on a map. It will be given on January 20, Wednesday.
Mid-term exam: 20% of final grade
This exam will be given in class on March 2, Wednesday. It will be based on lecture content and reading materials assigned through that date. A make-up exam will be given only if you provide to the instructor with evidence of family/medical emergency or university-sponsored activities that force your absence.

Final paper: 40% of final grade
The final paper will be comprehensive. A topic will be given on April 25, Monday, and the paper is due May 2, Monday, at noon. Late submissions will be panelized for a reduction in grade letter per day (i.e. A → A-). A late submission of more than one week will not be accepted and will automatically receive the grade of F for this assignment. Students taking this course for honors credit are required to write a 20-25 page research paper in addition to the paper.

Class participation: 30% of final grade
Your attendance and active participation are vital to the success of this course. At a minimum, you should come to class on time having completed and thought about the assigned readings for that class. We will cover materials during class that are not in the readings (and we will not cover every single point from the readings in class). A record of attendance will be maintained, and it is your individual responsibility to sign the class roster at each session. If you must miss class for an approved reason (e.g.; illness, death or medical emergency in the immediate family, University-sponsored activities), please let me know via email as soon as possible and I will make sure that I will not count it as absence. You are responsible for all materials covered in class, whether you are physically present or not. Make-up exams will be given only under the most extraordinary of circumstances.

I expect that all students will contribute to class discussions through analysis, questions, and criticisms of the assigned readings. In assigning participation grades, quality of participation will take precedence over quantity of participation (hence, students who participate frequently but without giving much thought to their comments/questions are not at an advantage compared to students who offer occasional but insightful analysis and questions).

Final letter grades will be assigned that correspond to the following numeric scale:

\[
\begin{array}{cccccc}
\text{A} & 93-100 & \text{B+} & 87-89 & \text{C+} & 77-79 \\
\text{A-} & 90-92 & \text{B} & 83-86 & \text{C} & 73-76 \\
& 80-82 & \text{C-} & 70-72 & \\
\end{array}

Classroom Courtesy:
Out of respect for all of those in class, all cell phones, pagers, and any other noisemaking devices must be turned OFF during the entire class period and during exams. Laptop computers may be used in class provided they do not make noise that disturbs those around you. I reserve the right to ask you to turn off and put away your computer if it is creating a disruption.
Academic Integrity:

Academic integrity is honest, truthful and responsible conduct in all academic endeavors. The mission of Saint Louis University is “the pursuit of truth for the greater glory of God and for the service of humanity.” Accordingly, all acts of falsehood demean and compromise the corporate endeavors of teaching, research, health care, and community service via which SLU embodies its mission. The University strives to prepare students for lives of personal and professional integrity, and therefore regards all breaches of academic integrity as matters of serious concern.

The governing University-level Academic Integrity Policy was adopted in Spring 2015, and can be accessed on the Provost’s Office website at:

Additionally, each SLU College, School, and Center has adopted its own academic integrity policies, available on their respective websites. All SLU students are expected to know and abide by these policies, which detail definitions of violations, processes for reporting violations, sanctions, and appeals. Please direct questions about any facet of academic integrity to your faculty, the chair of the department of your academic program, or the Dean/Director of the College, School or Center in which your program is housed.

Title IX Statement:

Saint Louis University and its faculty are committed to supporting our students and seeking an environment that is free of bias, discrimination, and harassment. If you have encountered any form of sexual misconduct (e.g. sexual assault, sexual harassment, stalking, domestic or dating violence), we encourage you to report this to the University. If you speak with a faculty member about an incident of misconduct, that faculty member must notify SLU’s Title IX coordinator, Anna R. Kratky (DuBourg Hall, room 36; akratky@slu.edu; 314-977-3886) and share the basic fact of your experience with her. The Title IX coordinator will then be available to assist you in understanding all of your options and in connecting you with all possible resources on and off campus.

If you wish to speak with a confidential source, you may contact the counselors at the University Counseling Center at 314-977-TALK. To view SLU’s sexual misconduct policy and for resources, please visit the following web address: http://www.slu.edu/general-counsel-home/office-of-institutional-equity-and-diversity/sexual-misconduct-policy.
Student Success Center:
In recognition that people learn in a variety of ways and that learning is influenced by multiple factors (e.g., prior experience, study skills, learning disability), resources to support student success are available on campus. The Student Success Center, a one-stop shop, which assists students with academic and career related services, is located in the Busch Student Center (Suite, 331) and the School of Nursing (Suite, 114). Students who think they might benefit from these resources can find out more about:

- Course-level support (e.g., faculty member, departmental resources, etc.) by asking your course instructor.
- University-level support (e.g., tutoring services, university writing services, disability services, academic coaching, career services, and/or facets of curriculum planning) by visiting the Student Success Center or by going to www.slu.edu/success.

Disability Services Academic Accommodations:
Students with a documented disability who wish to request academic accommodations are encouraged to contact Disability Services to discuss accommodation requests and eligibility requirements. Please contact Disability Services, located within the Student Success Center, at Disability_services@slu.edu or 314.977.3484 to schedule an appointment. Confidentiality will be observed in all inquiries. Once approved, information about academic accommodations will be shared with course instructors via email from Disability Services and viewed within Banner via the instructor's course roster.
