Personality Disorders: Assessment and Intervention
February 12, 2016, 9-12 pm 3 CEH’s

Course Description
This session will provide an overview of the prominent personality disorders including borderline, antisocial, narcissistic, obsessive compulsive, and dependent. Participants will be introduced to the symptoms, etiology, and common co-occurring issues that are experienced in clinical practice. Accurate assessment and evidenced-based interventions will be presented in order to help clinicians in working effectively with people. DSM 5 criterion and assessment will be used.

Learning Objectives
1. Accurately assess for personality disorders using the DSM 5.
2. Demonstrate connections and impact of personality disorders with co-occurring psychiatric disorders.
3. Plan and apply intervention strategies.
