School of Public Health

HONOR CODE & ACADEMIC INTEGRITY PLEDGE

I have read and understand the information contained in the Saint Louis University School of Public Health Academic Integrity module. In signing this statement, I acknowledge that it is an honor and a privilege to study and work in the field of public health. I accept the responsibilities unique to the profession, the School of Public Health and Saint Louis University. I understand that these responsibilities begin the moment I start my graduate studies at Saint Louis University School of Public Health. I pledge to adhere fully to the academic integrity principles and policies of Saint Louis University, Graduate Education and the School of Public Health. I promise to uphold the highest standards of ethical and compassionate behavior while learning, caring for others, performing research, and participating in educational activities. I do so according to the tenets that will guide me, here and always, particularly the tenets of the School of Public Health Covenant – love, responsibility, trust, acceptance, concern, personal development, balance and partnership – and the following tenets specific to these principles:

HONESTY
- I will maintain the highest standards of honesty.
- I will conduct my research, writing and study in an unbiased manner, report the results truthfully and appropriately and accurately credit ideas developed and worked on by others.

INTEGRITY
- I will conduct myself professionally.
- I will take responsibility for my actions and my choices.
- I will recognize my own limitations and will seek help through University resources when appropriate.

RESPECT
- I will contribute to creating a safe and supportive atmosphere for teaching and learning.
- I will regard privacy and confidentiality as core obligations.

[ ] I understand that failure to adhere to the rules governing academic integrity may result in serious academic and personal consequences.
