John Cook School of Business

The School of Business was founded in 1910 as a distinct unit of Saint Louis University, one of the first schools in the American west to provide business education at the university level. In fall 2000, the school was named for alumnus John Cook in recognition of his many contributions to the business school and university.

The instructional activities of the John Cook School of Business are founded on certain fundamental principles. First, the school seeks to support the development of its students by means of selected disciplines which cultivate critical thinking and analytical, leadership, and written and oral communication skills. Second, the school encourages the development of intellectual, moral, and social habits, which distinguish its graduates as ethical leaders in their chosen fields of business and in their communities. Further, the school aids its graduates in the pursuit of their chosen professional objectives and guides its students in the selection of their business careers.

The John Cook School of Business offers a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (B.S.B.A.) degree with concentrations available in multiple business disciplines. The school continues to educate, in the unique Jesuit tradition, well rounded, knowledgeable, skilled and ethical business graduates who are ready to assume leadership roles in a variety of capacities.

Accreditation

Selecting a business school is one of the most important decisions a student makes; therefore, high standards should be set. The premier business school accrediting body, the AACSB International (Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business), governs the standards by which business schools are evaluated.

Achieving AACSB accreditation in the field of business education ensures continuous quality improvement in the learning environment through enhancements to the curriculum, instructional resources, student selection, career planning and placement, and the intellectual contributions and qualifications of the faculty.

The faculty and staff of the John Cook School of Business are proud of our accreditation status and believe that it places us in a category of distinction among our peers. Less than 7% of business schools worldwide have achieved AACSB accreditation. Students who choose to attend an AACSB accredited business school join an environment where learning matters, where relevant curriculum is conveyed along with best practices by highly qualified faculty.

Undergraduate Degree Offered

The school’s undergraduate degree program offers a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (B.S.B.A.) degree with concentrations available in the following disciplines (detailed information can be found on the following pages):

Areas of Concentration

Non-business majors in some traditional degree programs outside of the John Cook School of Business may pursue one of the following business certificate programs (detailed information can be found on the following pages):

Business Administration
Human Resource Management (for Psychology majors)
Management Information Systems
Marketing (for Communication majors)

Special Programs
Accounting Scholars Program
This program is available only to entering freshmen whose high school scholastic achievement and admission test scores demonstrate superior academic potential. Detailed information regarding the program can be found on the following pages.

Integrated Accounting Program
The Integrated Accounting Program will allow students the opportunity to complete both the undergraduate and graduate degrees in accounting simultaneously. Detailed information regarding the program can be found on the following pages.

Degree-Enhancing Opportunities

Internship Program

In today's competitive business environment, it is imperative that students gain career-related experience prior to graduation. Recognizing this necessity, the Cook School provides an internship program that includes resources on finding an internship, resume review, cover letter writing assistance, and interview skill development. The school maintains relationships with employers in the St. Louis region and throughout the United States, representing a variety of industries including corporate, government, and non-profit organizations. These relationships provide juniors and seniors a wide range of choices for their internship experiences. An internship may provide up to 3 hours of course credit within the curriculum, allowing students opportunities to combine classroom learning with practical, career-related work experience under the supervision of practicing professionals. In addition, with the school’s ideal urban setting for students studying business, students have the ability to participate in an internship while continuing to attend classes.

For more information about the Internship program, go to http://business.slu.edu/careers_internships.

Service Leadership Certificate Program
In addition to the internship program, the location of the school provides students many opportunities to develop leadership through service to the community. Through its nationally recognized (The Templeton Guide: Colleges that Encourage Character Development) Service Leadership Certificate program, students have the opportunity to bridge Ignatian philosophy with academic learning, personal experiences, and reflection. Detailed information regarding the program can be found on the following pages.

Study Abroad
With the increasing globalization of business, it is important for graduates to possess sensitivity to the impact of cultural, social, economic, and political differences, which can be gained through a study abroad experience. To enhance their education and to learn about another culture, business students are encouraged to take advantage of one of the many study abroad opportunities. The school offers a variety of opportunities to study outside of the U.S., including the option to complete an International Business concentration at our Madrid campus. In addition to the SLU campus in Madrid, programs of study are offered in multiple locations around the world including, but not limited to, France, Germany, Sweden, Belgium, China, the Netherlands, Denmark, Mexico, and El Salvador.

Once a potential study abroad site has been selected, a business school academic advisor will evaluate the courses to determine if there are any Saint Louis University equivalents. For students attending a formalized SLU Study Abroad program, all grades earned will be included in the SLU GPA. For all other study abroad or exchange programs, only courses with grades of “C” or better will transfer; however, the grade will NOT be included in the student’s SLU GPA.

Due to the requirement that the last 30 hours must be completed in residence at the St. Louis campus, students should plan to study abroad in their sophomore year or early in their junior year; however, there is an exception to this residency requirement for students selecting the option of pursuing a concentration in International Business at the Madrid campus.

For information about study abroad programs and for application materials to study abroad, contact the Department of International Business at http://business.slu.edu/depts/International_Business/StudyAbroad

General Information

Admission Requirements
The minimum grade point average (GPA) requirement for admission to the Cook School of Business is 2.5 for freshmen. For transfer students, the minimum GPA requirement for admission to the accounting program is 2.5 and 2.0 for admission to all other business school programs. Students must be admitted to the business school no later than one semester prior to the semester in which they are applying to graduate.

Advanced Placement Coursework/Dual Credit Coursework
See section under University Academic Policies and Procedures.
Academic Advising
Upon admission to the business school, students will be assigned an academic advisor who will assist with planning coursework toward degree completion. In addition, once a student selects an area of concentration within the business school, a faculty mentor will be assigned who will provide additional information about the concentration, including career paths.

Honors, Pre-Law, and Pre-Professional Health Studies Programs
The Cook School of Business participates in the University’s Honors, Pre-Law, and Pre-Professional Health Studies programs. Students in each of these programs have the opportunity to complete a major in business in addition to any required program courses. Information regarding these programs can be found elsewhere in the catalog.

Double Undergraduate Degrees
See section under University Academic Policies and Procedures. (Programs outside of the business school requiring 30 or more credit hours of business coursework may NOT be combined with the business degree.)

Transfer Credit Guidelines/Concurrent Enrollment
Students interested in transferring credit from another institution should contact Undergraduate Student Services in the Cook School of Business to determine applicability of transfer coursework toward graduation requirements. Continuing students must receive approval PRIOR to enrolling in courses away from SLU. The transferability of on-line courses is limited; exams for on-line courses must be given on-site or they will not be considered for transfer. Students must earn a grade of “C” or better in approved transfer courses. Classified, business degree-seeking students may NOT take courses concurrently at other institutions without prior permission from their academic advisor in the business school.

Undergraduate Students taking Graduate Business Courses
Undergraduate students are generally not permitted to take graduate business courses; however, seniors with at least a 3.0 cumulative SLU GPA may petition to take up to six hours of graduate coursework in the last semester of their senior year. Approval by both the department chairperson of the course and associate dean is required.

Pass/No Pass Option
The Cook School of Business does NOT allow the pass/no pass option to ANY undergraduate student enrolled in business courses. In addition, business students may NOT take ANY course on a pass/no pass basis if the course is to count towards degree completion.

Repeating Courses
Students may not register to repeat a course in which a grade higher than "C-" has been earned. All grades earned in a repeated course will be averaged into the cumulative grade point average; however, if a course is taken twice with passing grades, the credit cannot be counted twice for graduation.

Academic Probation/Dismissal
Students whose cumulative SLU grade point average falls below 2.0 are required to apply for probationary status, which allows for no more than two consecutive semesters to improve scholastically and to demonstrate the ability to make progress toward a degree.

During the probationary period, advisors help students achieve academic success by closely monitoring their academic performance. Students on probation may NOT register for more than 12-15 hours of coursework as defined by the terms of the probation.
The conditions under which a student is dismissed from the school: 1) inability to eliminate probationary status within the two semesters subsequent to the assignment of probation or 2) a total grade point deficit of more than 15 points.

For more information, see section under University Academic Policies and Procedures.

Graduation Requirements
To be certified for graduation, a student must complete all course requirements and meet all of the following conditions:
1. apply to graduate;
2. earn a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA in all SLU coursework; Accounting students must earn a minimum 2.5 cumulative GPA in all SLU coursework and earn grades of "C" or better in all accounting courses that fulfill the concentration requirements;
3. earn a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA in all business coursework taken at Saint Louis University;
4. complete the Arts and Sciences core as specified in the business school curriculum;
5. complete the final 30 hours in residence at the St. Louis campus;*
6. complete at least 50% of business coursework in residence at the St. Louis campus;*
7. complete concentration course requirements in residence at the St. Louis campus;*
8. Students transferring from the SLU-Madrid campus must complete a minimum of 40 hours of coursework, including a minimum of 30 hours of business coursework in residence at the St. Louis campus.*

* Students may pursue the International Business concentration at the St. Louis campus and/or at the Madrid campus. The residency requirement then applies to courses taken at either campus.

Graduation Honors
See section under University Academic Policies and Procedures.

Academic Integriy
Students, faculty, and staff members share the responsibility to maintain a learning environment of mutual trust and integrity. Academic dishonesty violates this trust and may result in grade reduction and/or probation, suspension, or dismissal. Dishonest conduct includes, but is not limited to, soliciting, receiving, or providing any unauthorized assistance, including the use of technological devices, in the completion of any work submitted toward academic credit. It is the responsibility of any student who observes such dishonest conduct to call it to the attention of a faculty member or administrator.

For more information, see section under University Academic Policies and Procedures.

Curriculum
The business school’s undergraduate curriculum is developed by the faculty and is guided by standards set by the premier business school accrediting body, the AACSB International. In addition, to assist in ensuring that the curriculum is up-to-date and relevant, the school and many of the departments have advisory boards that allow interaction with the business and professional communities.

The curriculum affords both important breadth and depth of knowledge necessary to prepare students for success in today’s diverse and highly technical business world. The core curriculum provides a breadth of knowledge by combining a strong Arts and Sciences core (54 credit hours) with Business Common Body of Knowledge (CBK) coursework (43 credit hours), which includes studies in multiple business disciplines:
accounting, decision sciences, economics, finance, international business, management, management information systems, and marketing.

Beyond the business CBK coursework and the Arts and Sciences core, a depth of knowledge is achieved through advanced courses in a business concentration (15-18 credit hours) of the student’s choice: accounting, economics, entrepreneurship, finance, human resource management, international business (also requires 12 credit hours of foreign language), leadership and change management, management information systems, and marketing.

Business majors may supplement a chosen concentration with a second concentration and/or a supporting area in a different business discipline. If a business course overlaps between two business areas, it may be counted only once and credited to one functional area, i.e. International Finance may be used to satisfy a finance concentration requirement or an international business concentration requirement, but not both.

Business majors may also elect to pursue certificates, minors, and majors offered in fields outside of business (See those programs for specific requirements.).

Total Hours Required for Degree: 120

* Students who are exempt from ENGL-150 and/or MATH-120 will replace each course with an Arts and Sciences elective to satisfy the requirement of 54 credit hours of Arts and Sciences coursework.
 Upper division foreign language may be taken in lieu of six hours of literature; however, students for whom English is a second language may not complete this requirement in their native language.
MATH 142 (Calculus 1) or higher level calculus course may be substituted.

Electives
Students who are exempt from ENGL-150 or MATH-120 will need to replace the waived course with an Arts and Sciences elective to satisfy the 54 credit hours of Arts and Sciences requirement. In addition, a student may have other electives that are needed to satisfy the degree requirement of 120 credit hours, which may be selected from any area of study within the University, giving the student the opportunity to diversify his/her background

Area of Business Concentration
In addition to completing lower and upper division coursework in all areas of business, each student typically selects a business concentration before or during the first semester of the junior year. Required hours vary between 15 and 18 hours, and are determined by the appropriate department. To broaden their expertise, students may complete more than one area of concentration in business, or an area of concentration and a supporting area in business. However, where courses overlap between two business areas, the course may be counted only once and credited to one functional area, i.e. International Finance may be used in either the Finance concentration or the International Business concentration but not both.

Accounting is the language of business. As organizations become more complex, accountants constantly improve the processing, reporting and interpreting of information about organizational activities. Accounting is a career that involves people, with accountants heavily interacting with others in decision-making and problem-solving in modern business. With the accounting concentration, students gain an understanding of how information is identified, measured, communicated and used. Essentially, accountants are trained in the area of information processing and analysis.

Students may choose to graduate with the 120-hour bachelor’s degree; however, students who plan to take the CPA examination will be required to complete 150 hours of college credit as a prerequisite for taking the exam. Students may accumulate the 150 required hours in several ways: complete 150 hours at the undergraduate level; complete the 120 hour bachelor’s degree and complete the 30 hour Master of Accounting degree sequentially; or complete the Integrated Accounting Program (details below), which allows students the opportunity to complete both the undergraduate and graduate degrees in accounting simultaneously. The Department of Accounting also offers an Accounting Scholars Program (details below) for qualified incoming freshmen.

Accounting Scholars Program

This program is available only to entering freshmen whose high school scholastic achievement and admission test scores demonstrate superior academic potential. Accounting Scholars who complete the program requirements are guaranteed a seat in Saint Louis University’s Integrated Accounting Program (see below) and will be given priority consideration for graduate level scholarships. Accounting Scholars will not be required to take the GMAT (Graduate Management Aptitude Test), but must formally submit application material to the Integrated Accounting Program to complete their admission.

Requirements:
- Composite ACT score of at least 30 or a combined SAT score of at least 1320 (math and verbal).
- High School GPA of at least 3.6 (weighted or unweighted).

To remain in the program, students must:
- Have at least a 3.5 cumulative GPA at the end of the freshman year and at least a 3.6 cumulative GPA at the end of the sophomore year and thereafter.
- Complete select coursework and other activities as determined by the Accounting Department.

Integrated Accounting Program

The Integrated Accounting Program will allow students the opportunity to complete both the undergraduate and graduate degrees in accounting simultaneously. This program is designed for students entering SLU with: 1) a university scholarship AND 2) college credit earned prior to entering SLU. There may be a financial aid advantage to this option.

Students may apply to be admitted to this program upon completion of (a) a minimum of 75 semester credit hours of college credit (including a minimum of 15 semester credit hours at SLU) with a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or better; (b) an upper level accounting class taken at SLU with a grade of “B” or better, and (c) a minimum GMAT score of 500.

The Department of Accounting offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree with a concentration in accounting.

Accounting (B.S.B.A.)

Required:

Eighteen (18) hours in addition to ACCT-220 and ACCT-222 which are taken as business CKB requirements. Accounting students must earn a grade of “C” or better in all accounting courses used to fulfill concentration requirements and an overall minimum GPA of 2.50.

The Department of Economics offers a major through both the John Cook School of Business (B.S.B.A. with a concentration in Economics) and the College of Arts and Sciences (B.A. in Economics—see College of Arts & Sciences for details).

Economics is the study of how individuals, firms, and nations make choices when confronted with limited resources. Students of economics learn the principles and methods that individuals and institutions, public or private, utilize to identify the costs and benefits associated with alternative decisions. In doing so, students of economics master a structured, pragmatic approach to solving problems. They are exposed to microeconomic issues that are relevant to decision-making in private business and in formulating public policy. Students are also exposed to global macroeconomic issues such as the ramifications of the changes in the international economic environment on the growth and prosperity of nations.

The knowledge and skills that the student of economics acquires are useful in almost all professions and are highly desirable for employment requiring strong analytical and problem solving skills. Students of economics find employment in both private business and in government service or pursue graduate degrees in business, economics, law, and public policy, among other areas.

The Department of Economics offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree with a concentration in economics.

Economics (B.S.B.A.)

Required:
Fifteen (15) hours in addition to ECON-190, ECON-312, and ECON-314, which are taken as business CBK requirements.

15 hours selected from the following:

Finance is the study of financial markets, financial institutions, the valuation of financial assets, and the allocation of assets to achieve desired financial goals. As every activity of society requires capital, the field of finance is involved in all aspects of economic endeavor. Finance professionals provide and manage resources for investment, growth and expansion. The field of finance is important to all individuals whether they work in a financial setting or for personal saving and investment programs.

Finance students should also take additional courses in accounting. Although Accounting 220 and 222 are required of all business majors, many employers look favorably upon additional accounting courses. In addition, the CFA level 1 exam requires knowledge of accounting that goes beyond the two core courses. Suggested Accounting courses include, ACCT 311, 411, and 412 (Financial Reporting I, II, and III), ACCT 320 (Corporate Financial Reporting), and ACCT 430 (Federal Income Tax I).

The Department of Finance offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree with a concentration in finance.

Finance (B.S.B.A.)

Required:
Eighteen (18) hours in addition to FIN-301, which is taken as a business CBK requirement.

Students of international business learn about the impact and implementation of international business practices in the modern marketplace. Since our economy today is increasingly global in nature, students examine how differences in language, communication, social interaction, work attitudes, relationships, economics, politics, pace of life and social structures affect global commerce.

Students with a concentration in international business are strongly encouraged to study abroad. One opportunity that greatly benefits students is a two-week study-abroad course the department offers between the fall and spring semesters at the City of Knowledge Campus in Panama. International Business students also have the option to study at the University’s Madrid campus. In addition to these programs, there are many other study abroad opportunities, including but not limited to: Peking University in Beijing, China; ESSCA in Angers, France; University of Lyon in France; University of Antwerp in Belgium; City University of Hong Kong; Sogang University in Seoul, Korea; Jonkoping International Business School in Sweden; Georg-Simon-Ohm School in Nurnberg, Germany. (See Study Abroad section for more detail.)

The Department of International Business offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree with a concentration in international business.

International Business (B.S.B.A.)

Required:
Fifteen (15) hours of international business courses in addition to IB-200, which is taken as a Business CBK requirement, and twelve (12) foreign language credit hours. At least nine (9) of the fifteen (15) hours of international business courses MUST be taken within the Department of International Business. Students may take up to six (6) of the fifteen (15) hours from internationally focused classes offered by other departments within the business school.

At least nine (9) of the fifteen (15) hours selected from the following:
IB-302  Latin American Business
IB-304  Asian Business
IB-310  Geopolitics for Global Business
IB-480  International Business Internship
IB-493  Special Topics in International Business
IB-496  Study Abroad Session--Various Locations*  (Two-weeks)

Up to six (6) of the fifteen (15) hours may be selected from the following:

The management programs focus on both the human and organizational aspects of the workplace, including behavioral and technical areas. Today’s dynamic business environment demands graduates who can effectively handle decisions, work with, and lead people. Emphasis is placed on motivating people with a manager’s skill and insight.

The undergraduate concentration in MIS is designed to prepare business students for careers as information systems professionals. The program of study focuses on educating students about the development and use of information systems as decision-making and problem-solving tools in a business environment. Students develop the technical skills and organizational insights required to analyze, design, implement, and manage information systems with an emphasis on the application of web-based and object-oriented information technologies. Courses require extensive hands-on projects, teamwork, and use of high-end computer technology. Typical career options for students graduating with a BSBA with a concentration in MIS include systems analyst, database administrator, software/web developer, IT consultant, and information systems manager.

The Department of Decision Sciences and Management Information Systems offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree with a concentration in management information systems.

Certificate Programs for Business Majors

Service Leadership Certificate Program

http://business.slu.edu/service

Saint Louis University strives to develop leaders who demonstrate competence, conscience, and commitment by integrating the strong traditions of Jesuit education with the fundamentals of leadership. The John Cook School of Business continues to educate business graduates ready to assume leadership roles in a variety of occupations. The Service Leadership Certificate program provides students in the John Cook School of Business with the opportunity to develop and hone their leadership skills while serving the St. Louis community. By volunteering at service sites such as Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Cardinal Glennon Children’s Hospital, Campus Kitchen, or one of the many other sites that are available, students will practice critical thinking, decision-making, effective communication, and team building skills that will help students become more effective future business leaders.

To earn the Service Leadership Certificate, students must complete:
• 15 credit hours of specified coursework
• 300 hours of community service
• 24 leadership workshops

The required 15 hours of coursework can be fulfilled through normal business degree requirements. Courses may be selected from an array of disciplines including African American Studies, Communication, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Public Policy, Social Work, Sociology, and Theology.

There are numerous, exciting opportunities for Service Leaders to complete their community service. The available service sites are diverse, and each one provides opportunities to gain meaningful leadership experience and make personal connections while serving the economically poor and marginalized of society.

Each year, 10 leadership workshops are offered through the Service Leadership Certificate Program with topics ranging from humor to ethical decision making and from personal reflection to professionalism. While Service Leaders are not expected to attend all of these workshops, they are expected to complete 24 by the time they finish the program. Students are encouraged to select workshops that will be most helpful in promoting their individual growth as a leader.

Certificate Programs for Non-Business Majors
