Dear Name(s),

You may be wondering why our pictures are emblazoned on this letter from Saint Louis University. For those of you who know us — perhaps from our reputation as “the dancing doctors” — you know we’re not Saint Louis University alumni. You may even know that we are not native St. Louisans.

When we relocated to the St. Louis area ## years ago, we immersed ourselves into our professional networks. The more fellow physicians we met, the more we realized the important role that Saint Louis University was playing in the region. So many of the most talented and caring doctors that we encountered graduated from SLU or now worked for SLUCare. Even before construction began on the new Edward A. Doisy Research Center, SLU faculty and researchers were achieving medical breakthroughs in many disciplines. When we looked at the city and its midtown improvements, we recognized Saint Louis University as a community leader. Obviously, SLU quickly impressed us. In fact, we were so impressed that we recommended Saint Louis University to our children, and now we are proud parents of a SLU student.

As parents of a SLU student and close colleagues of many fine SLU doctors, we found it fitting to give back to Saint Louis University as it has given so much to our family, the medical community and the greater St. Louis region. By virtue of these charitable gifts, we are members of the DuBourg Society. The DuBourg Society is a select community of donors who set the pace in advancing Saint Louis University. With an annual gift of $2,500 or more to any fund, you can support an area of your interest at Saint Louis University and become a member of this leadership group. Once you are a member of the DuBourg Society, you will receive a variety of invitations to special events on campus and around the country, as well as access to unique University publications and discounts.

Even though we are not alumni ourselves, our connection to Saint Louis University has played an important role in our lives. Your interests may be different from our own, but we hope your connection to SLU is meaningful for you as well. We hope you will join us in supporting Saint Louis University as a member of the DuBourg Society. Whether you make a pledge to a particular program or make a general gift to the University, your support goes a long way in providing for the future of Saint Louis University. Please join us by supporting Saint Louis University as members of the DuBourg Society by making a gift of $2,500 or more by June 30, 2007.

Sincerely,

Fred and Anita Chu
