Course description and objectives

This Chinese course is, as the title indicates, an advanced course designed for students who already have knowledge of basic Chinese learned either through taking Intermediate Chinese or through some other relevant experience. The purpose of this course is to facilitate oral practice, allow students to communicate in real-life situations, and have the basic translation skills. The course will cover a wide range of materials, in terms of vocabulary, grammar, listening and writing skills. Students will learn to read and write Chinese texts with minimal help and will learn to translate texts (English to Chinese and Chinese to English) without the aid of pinyin. This advanced course will enable students to be proficient in Chinese for travel and business. Additionally, the course will integrate Chinese culture into language learning to enhance the understanding of cultural influence on the language.

Required Textbook

In Class Activities:

The key to effective learning of Chinese is to master listening and speaking first, followed by reading and writing. In addition to lectures, we will use videos, newspaper clips, photo stories, and CDs. Students will be put into “conversational pairs” to facilitate practice of spoken Chinese. Compulsory speaking in Chinese is required in class.

Regular Homework:

- Memorizing new vocabularies for each lesson
- Copying new characters for each new lesson
- Reading and reciting the designated text
- Translating short paragraphs from and to Chinese
- Listening to tapes/CDs of lessons
- Practicing oral Chinese by ‘conversational pairs’ in class

Term Assignment

Each student is required to write in Chinese a short composition (max 3 double-spaced pages) and reads it to the class towards the end of the semester.

Grading:

10% - Participation: Class and Lab attendance will be mandatory. Classroom performance and other activities will be recorded. Half a point will be deducted for each absence.
