WHAT IS THE 1818 PROGRAM ABOUT?

Founded in 1959, Saint Louis University's 1818 Advanced College Credit Program is the oldest dual credit program west of the Mississippi. The 1818 Program has a long standing history of providing high school students the opportunity to earn college credit from Saint Louis University at their high schools for a reduced tuition rate while still earning their high school credit.

The 1818 Advanced College Credit Program originated as a joint project with Saint Louis University High School and Xavier High School in 1959 as a way to target bright elementary school students who could skip one year of grade school and move onto high school one year early.

The program would allow students to graduate early from the first eight years of school, and move onto high school one year ahead of schedule. Students could then accumulate college credits through the Advanced College Credit Program and graduate from college one year early (the second eight years of school), hence, the 1-8-1-8 name.

While the program no longer participates in the elementary school program, it retains "1818" in its title, as Saint Louis University was founded in 1818 and has become a namesake in the St. Louis region.

KEY FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT THE 1818 PROGRAM

The 1818 Program is the first Catholic dual credit program in the nation, second oldest dual credit program, and the oldest program west of the Mississippi.

Since 1959, over half a million students have benefited from participating in the program, earning over a million credits.

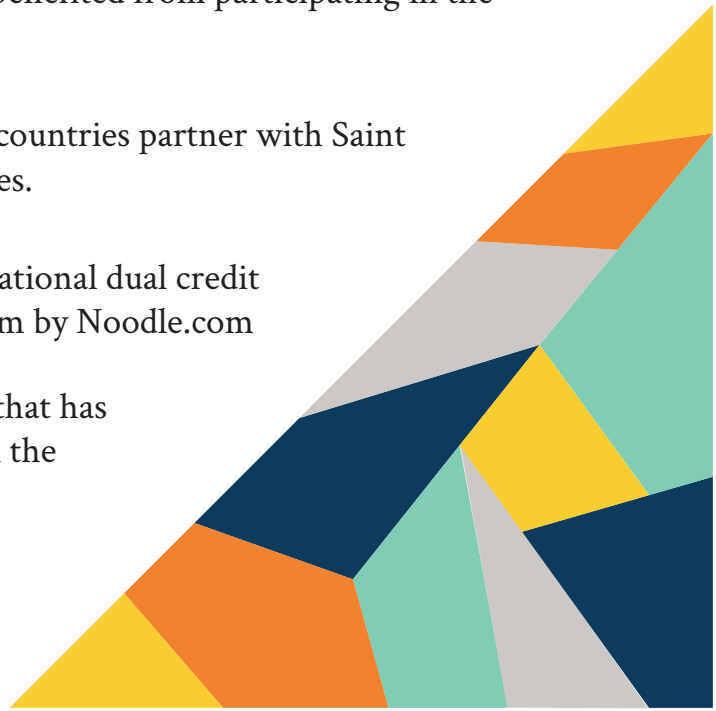

Over 125 high schools in ten states and three countries partner with Saint Louis University for their college credit courses.

The 1818 Program is one of the largest international dual credit providers in the world and is a top ten program by Noodle.com

SLU 1818 remains one of only 112 programs that has achieved national program accreditation from the National Alliance of Concurrent Enrollment Partnerships.

BEING SUCCESSFUL IN 1818

Being a part of the 1818 Advanced College Credit Program means more than just taking college credit classes. As part of a long tradition of excellence, Saint Louis University expects you to apply yourself and explore what you want to do with the rest of your life.

Once logged in select the "Tools" tab, click on the "Banner Self-Service" icon, click on "Student" tab, click on "Registration," click on "Student Schedule," select the correct term, and click submit. Can I drop my classes for college credit and still take it for high school credit?

You are allowed to withdraw or drop classes for college credit and stay enrolled in the course for high school credit. Your 1818 High School Coordinator will submit a drop request on your behalf to the 1818 Program Office.

How do I register for future 1818 college credit classes?

Since the 1818 Program reflects how college classes are offered at Saint Louis University, students must register each semester for their courses. This often differs from how high school course registration works. Just because you are enrolled in your high school courses does not mean you are registered for 1818 college credit. Since you are already enrolled in a class, regardless if you end up receiving college credit for the course, you should follow the Returning Student instructions from here on out to register.

ATTENDING SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY FOR COLLEGE

We hope you'll consider enrolling at Saint Louis University for your undergraduate career! If you do attend SLU, be aware that your 1818 GPA will matriculate into your undergraduate GPA.

To apply to Saint Louis University for your undergraduate education, please visit: slu.edu/apply

TRANSFERING CREDIT TO OTHER INSTITUTIONS

If you choose to attend another university for your undergraduate career, please be advised of a few things. First, it is the student's responsibility to inquire about how SLU credits will transfer. Any resources provided by SLU on transfer is not a gurantee of transferability. Second, most insitutions will only accept a "C" or better to receieve credit. Third, most institutions do not matricualte your SLU GPA into your undergraduate GPA, however, may some do. Fourth, even if a credit transfers as an elective, it will still help you in staying on track toward graduation, as you will have a required number of credits to fuffill. Finally, you will need to request a transcript to be sent to your university.

To transfer 1818 credits, please visit <http://www.slu.edu/1818/transfer-credits>

TRANSFER RESOURCES

While it is your responsibility to inquire how SLU college credits will transfer at other institutions, Saint Louis University has complied resources to help assist you. The 1818 Program has a variety of transfer resources from an annual transferability report based on alumni responses, a partnership with Transferology, a link to an external database regarding credit transfer policies, and the only interactive transferability map in the nation populated from data from the National Clearing House on program alumni.

To access the resoruces, please visit <http://www.slu.edu/1818/transfer-credits>

TRANSFER APPEAL PROCESS

While it is ultimately an institution's decision how SLU credits will transfer into the student's academic career, the 1818 Program does provide support to appeal transfer denials.

If an institution denies an 1818 course to be counted for credit, a student should follow the following process to seek help from the 1818 Office to appeal the decision.

1. Provide a copy of the course syllabus to the institution. The 1818 Program keeps all syllabi on file for instructors. You may reach out if you need a syllabus by emailing 1818@slu.edu.
2. If an institution still denies the credit, please contact the 1818 Director at 1818@slu.edu and provide the courses in question, reason for denial, and your contact. The 1818 Director will reach out to see if they can resolve the issue or if faculty from each institution can discuss to try and resolve the situation.

While the 1818 Program will exhaust all avenues to support students in getting credits transferred, it is important to remember that it is the receiving institution's right to not accept credits and it is the student's responsibility to investigate transferability before enrolling in a course.

CONSIDERATIONS REGARDING HOW INSTITUTIONS COUNT TRANSFER CREDITS

Ivy league schools like to see students take dual credit classes, but typically will not accept them toward undergraduate coursework.

Students hoping to attend medical school / pre-professional health pathways should know that almost every institution will not accept dual credit science credit. Additionally, for those going into engineering fields physics and mathematics courses may need to be retaken at the institution. However, if you change from these tracks your dual credit could come back into play.

Not all credits will transfer as core credits. Depending on the degree program you choose, the core requirements may vary. Some credits will be counted as elective credits, which still can be of benefit.

Institutions will require a minimum amount of credits to be taken at the institution itself. Students should be aware of this as they work to accumulate credits. Students should be mindful of how many dual credits they are taking regarding this.

How Do I SUCCEED IN 1818 COLLEGE CLASSES?

Being familiar with your class policies and requirements will ensure successful completion of the course.

BEING AWARE OF COURSE POLICIES

How is my SLU grade calculated?

You should refer to your syllabus. Saint Louis University vets your instructors syllabus to ensure it is comparable to the on-campus sections. The numerical grading scale and assignment point value, as at the university, is set by your professor and will determine your final grade. These items have been reviewed and approved by the university department.

What is SLU's grading scale?

Saint Louis University does not have a common numerical grading scale. The grading scale is set by the instructor with university approval. Saint Louis University does have a common letter grading scale.

Saint Louis University's undergraduate grading system follows a 0 - 4.000 grade point scale. Grades are assigned to the SLU transcript as follows:

Grade	Grade Points	Interpretation
A	4.000	High achievement and intellectual initiative
A-	3.700
B+	3.300	Above average, approaching high achievement
B	3.000	Above average achievement
B-	2.700
C+	2.300	Midway between B and C
C	2.000	Average achievement
C-	1.700
D	1.000	Inferior but passing achievement
F	0	Failure

What if I think a grade was miscalculated or reported incorrectly?

The following reasons are ones in which you may request an appeal:

1. Miscalculation of grade.
2. The assignment of a grade to a particular 1818 student was given on some basis other than performance in the course.
3. The assignment of a grade to a particular 1818 student was given by more exacting or demanding standards than were applied to other equivalent 1818 students in that section.
4. The grade assigned results from different standards than the criteria for performance and evaluation outlined in the course syllabus.

You should first speak to your instructor and see if you can resolve the grade dispute. If you are unable to do so, please email the 1818 Program Director at 1818@slu.edu regarding the issue.

The formal grade appeal process for the 1818 Program can be found on page 25 of the 1818 Program Policies and Procedures Handbook found at <http://www.slu.edu/1818/partner-with-1818/1818-handbook.pdf>

What is FERPA?

FERPA — or the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 — is a federal law giving certain rights to parents and students regarding education records at schools of every level — including Saint Louis University — receiving funding from the U.S. Department of Education.

It should be noted that at the university level, the rights afforded by FERPA belong, in general, to the student rather than the parent.

More information can be found at:

<https://www.slu.edu/registrar/third-party-access/ferpa-and-saint-louis-university>

What if I miss class?

As a college student, attending class is extremely important. You are responsible for communicating with your instructor and making up any missed work. You should also be aware of the course and high school attendance policy in the syllabus or high school student handbook. Consecutive absences from classes may have potential negative consequences regarding your final grade or ability to continue in the course.

Who has my college grade?

College grades will be recorded on your permanent Saint Louis University transcript at the end of each semester by your high school instructor.

Please note that reflective of collegiate practices and FERPA regulations, no grade report is mailed to you. You may view your grades online through the mySLU portal at myslu.slu.edu.

What if I don't get a good grade in the class?

Transcripts are federally protected records. If you earn an unsatisfactory grade in your class, it will remain on your Saint Louis University transcript throughout your college career.

If you attend another institution, they will most likely not transfer the credit in or report it on your undergraduate transcript, but require you to retrace the class at the institution.

If you attend Saint Louis University for your undergraduate career you may petition to retake the course on-campus.

If you are not satisfied with the grade you are earning, you may withdraw from your class up to the published drop date for the semester.

If there are extenuating circumstances that led to the unsatisfactory grade, you may file an appeal for late withdrawal to the 1818 Program Director at 1818@slu.edu.

Does taking dual credit affect anything?

Yes. When you take your first college course, regardless of when or where you take it, you start your financial aid clock. To be eligible for future federal financial aid, you must meet these criteria:

» 67 Percent Rule: Maintain a 67 percent completion rate of all classes attempted. For example, if you sign up for two classes, and you drop one class and receive a W on your transcript, you have only completed 50 percent of all classes attempted and do not meet the 67 percent rule.

» GPA Rule: Maintain a cumulative GPA that is above your college grade-level minimum.

» 150 Percent Rule: You must complete your degree within a maximum of 150 percent of the required hours for your degree completion. For example, if your degree requires 120 hours, you must complete it within 180 hours to meet the 150 percent rule.

SLU POLICIES IN COURSES THAT AFFECT YOU

What if I am caught cheating?

Academic integrity is honest, truthful and responsible conduct in all academic endeavors. The mission of Saint Louis University is “the pursuit of truth for the greater glory of God and for the service of humanity.”

Accordingly, all acts of falsehood demean and compromise the corporate endeavors of teaching, research, healthcare, and community service via which SLU embodies in its mission.

The University strives to prepare students for lives of personal and professional integrity, and therefore regards all breaches of academic integrity as matters of serious concern.

You should strive to be honest in all of your work. Failure to do so will result in consequences outlined in your high school code of conduct, your course syllabus and the 1818 Academic Integrity policy found on page 31 of the 1818 Policies and Procedure Handbook at

<http://www.slu.edu/1818/partner-with-1818/1818-handbook.pdf>

How do I give feedback on my experience?

At the end of each semester, course evaluations are sent out electronically from the Provost Office at Saint Louis University to student’s high school or personal e-mail accounts. You may also access evaluations under the “Tools” tab in your mySLU account. Look for the Blue Course Evaluations icon in the list of applications.

Students can respond up to four weeks after receiving the e-mail. The evaluations are completely voluntary and anonymous, but students are strongly encouraged and reminded to complete the evaluation as this is the best way to improve the course and the program.

What if I need more time to complete the course?

Due to extenuating circumstances, such as a severe medical issue, you may petition your instructor for a course extension. The instructor has the right to decide if the situation warrants an extension or not. You and your instructor will come to agreed terms on what is needed to complete the course successfully. Your instructor will provide a copy of the agreement to the 1818 Office. Failure to complete the agreed upon terms could result in an F on your transcript.

HOW WILL SLU SET ME UP FOR SUCCESS?

SLU and the 1818 Program are here to see you succeed. We want nothing more than to see you flourish in this program and go off to college prepared to take on the challenges ahead of you!
