Course Objectives
The political theorist, Hannah Arendt, described the attempt to understand human nature as the equivalent of a person trying to jump over their own shadow. And yet, most political theorists and philosophers must have at least some sense of the kind of beings they are writing about in order to imagine the best sort of political regime possible for us to live under with one another. In this course, we will explore a number of different approaches to the question of human nature as embedded in the work and thought of Western political philosophers ranging from the ancient period to the Christian era to the early modern world to the postmodern and contemporary landscapes. Along the way we will read a wide range of theorists and philosophers to both understand their particular political projects and their implied answers to the two basic questions that underlie this course:
1. From a social, theoretical, and philosophical perspective what does it mean to be human?
2. What kind of political order is properly suited and sustainable for human habitation?

Required Texts
The Trial and Death of Socrates by Plato
The Prince by Machiavelli
The Second Treatise of Government by John Locke
Existentialism and Human Emotions by Jean-Paul Sartre
Augustine and the Limits of Politics by Jean Bethke Elstain
The Person and the Common Good by Jacques Maritain
Creating Capabilities: The Human Development Approach by Martha Nussbaum

*Other readings will be provided electronically during the semester.

Requirements
Students will be expected to attend each class session with the required readings done and be prepared and willing to participate thoughtfully in the discussions of them. Grades for the course will be determined based on the following:

(10) Quizzes 100 points (10 points each)*
(1) Mid-term Examination 150 points
(1) Final Examination 150 points

400 points total

*There are no make-up quizzes. To provide some relief in case of absence every student gets 20 bonus points to start the course. This would allow you to miss two quizzes without penalty to your grade. However, if you take all 10 quizzes then the 20 points will count as extra credit toward your final grade.

Grade Scale in Points

- 400-368 = A
- 367-360 = A-
- 359-348 = B+
- 347-328 = B
- 327-320 = B-
