Course Description

This course aims to unearth and analyze the theoretical underpinnings of the Black Lives Matter (BLM) movement and the Movement for Black Lives (M4BL) policy platform. Since its emergence, BLM has articulated an intersectional critique of anti-black violence in the United States (and, to a certain extent, globally). BLM and the larger M4BL coalition provide an in-depth analysis of the specific ways structures of oppression such as white supremacy, patriarchy, and racial capitalism affect Black populations. By historically and theoretically situating BLM and the M4BL policy platform in the context of Black radical thought, including but not limited to abolitionist thought, intersectionality, and conceptualizations of racial capitalism, we will trace the ways BLM and M4BL adopt and build on various lineages of theoretical critique to diagnose contemporary structures of anti-black violence.

Our semester will begin with a historical, philosophical, and socio-political inquiry into the concepts of “race” and white supremacy. Subsequently, we will ask: How does BLM understand anti-blackness and white supremacy? In what ways are the histories of Black enslavement and settler colonialism relevant to the present struggles for Black lives? Why are Black bodies disproportionately represented in the U.S. prison population? On what grounds does the M4BL policy platform suggest that “patriarchy, exploitative (global) capitalism, militarism, and white supremacy” are interlinked? What universal vision of liberation does BLM seek to enact? By asking such questions, we will explore the dynamic ways BLM and the M4BL policy platform have adapted existing political-theoretical frameworks, ranging from Black feminist thought to Black Marxism(s) to prison abolition, to reveal the historical and on-going structural violence impacting Black people. We will also examine the forms of resistance and transnational solidarity that have emerged from BLM’s on-the-ground struggles.

Course Objectives and Learning Goals

• Understanding core concepts developed by Black thinkers to analyze the specific relations of domination affecting Black populations in the United States.
• Identifying the historical, political, and intellectual context within which these interventions were (and are) made.
• Connecting theoretical and philosophical concepts and BLM’s contemporary political struggles against systems of inequality and oppression.
• Improving critical reading and comprehension skills by engaging with complex theoretical texts.
• Writing clear, well-formulated arguments and analyses that can explore continuities and discontinuities between theoretical ideas and concepts and practices of on-the-ground resistance.
• Engaging in thoughtful dialogue and debate through class discussions.
• Developing self-reflexivity and critical thinking about your own pre-conceived assumptions and political beliefs.

Required Texts

There are no required books to be purchased for this course. I will provide PDFs for all the readings. Please make sure you print the reading(s) for the day and bring them with you to class.

If you wish to buy books for the course, below is a list from which some of the readings have been drawn:

Grading

The following components will determine your grade in this course:

1. Attendance and Participation (20%): Attending class meetings is mandatory. If you’re sick, or in case you’re faced by an emergency, please contact me at the soonest. Additionally, since this is a discussion-based seminar, I expect you to come to each class prepared and ready to engage in discussions about the readings at hand.
2. Weekly Reading Responses (20%): Each week you must post a written response (250-300 words) to the readings on Blackboard. Since our class meets twice a week, your post should address all the readings for one class session per week. This means that you can choose to respond to the readings for Monday or Wednesday. On weeks where we will only meet once, everyone will be expected to submit a response for that particular class.

Your reading responses should include a minimum of two discussion questions for our seminar. You must submit these responses no later than 11pm the day before our seminar meets.

No weekly responses will be required for the weeks when the take-home essay is due and/or you’re a discussion leader.

3. Midterm Take-Home Essay (20%): A 6 page take-home essay in response to a prompt I will provide in advance. You will have a week to complete this assignment.

4. Discussion Leader (10%): Each seminar member will be responsible for facilitating a portion of class discussion at least once during the semester. During the first two weeks of class, I will ask you to sign up for a class meeting that you’re interested in leading. You will be required to meet with me the week before you lead discussion.

5. Final Paper Project (30%): Your final assignment will consist of a 10-12 page essay. Your final essay is due on Dec. 12th no later than 5 pm. While I will not be handing out essay prompts, you will be expected to come and meet with me to develop a question that examines a particular aspect of BLM’s relationship to the theoretical texts we have studied. I will begin working with you on developing your final essay topic after the midterm essay is due. You will be expected to submit to a short paragraph outlining the questions you wish to explore and some of the literature you wish to engage.

Course Expectations, Policies, and Requirements

Class Discussions
All of us come to this class as learners, teachers, and thinkers. None of us, myself included, have the singular correct answer for all of the complex, important topics and ideas we will be discussing. Instead, we will seek to work collaboratively through these questions and issues in a critical, supportive, and dialogical manner. Students should come to class ready to interact with each other in a collaborative environment, and with a spirit of curiosity. Our classroom will be an open, creative, and supportive space for all. I expect, enjoy, and encourage a lively classroom discussion, but it must always be conducted in a respectful manner.

Technology Policy
Other than exceptions that we discuss individually, computers/tablets are not permitted in class. You must bring a hard copy of the readings to class. There are a few reasons for this. First, numerous studies indicate that students taking notes on computers learn information less effectively than those taking written notes. Second, many of us, myself included, find it difficult to pull ourselves away from email, social media, etc. especially when we have a screen open right in front of us. In class we will do away with these distractions. Finally, and most importantly, this is a discussion-based class. I expect you to devote your full attention to your peers, the readings, and the ideas we are discussing.

Office Hours
I encourage everyone to come to my office hours to discuss the readings, get assistance and/or brainstorm writing assignments, and to talk about any issues or difficulties you might be facing in the course. If you cannot make it to office hours, please email me and I’d be more than happy to set up an appointment with you.

Academic Integrity
Academic integrity is honest, truthful and responsible conduct in all academic endeavors. The mission of Saint Louis University is "the pursuit of truth for the greater glory of God and for the service of humanity." Accordingly, all acts of falsehood demean and compromise the corporate endeavors of teaching, research, health care, and community service via which SLU embodies its mission. The University strives to prepare students for lives of personal and professional integrity, and therefore regards all breaches of academic integrity as matters of serious concern.

The governing University-level Academic Integrity Policy was adopted in Spring 2015, and can be accessed on the Provost's Office website at: https://www.slu.edu/academics/graduate/university-wide_academic_integrity_policy_final_6-26-15.pdf

Additionally, each SLU College, School, and Center has adopted its own academic integrity policies, available on their respective websites. All SLU students are expected to know and abide by these policies, which detail definitions of violations, processes for reporting violations, sanctions, and appeals. Please direct questions about any facet of academic integrity to your faculty, the chair of the department of your academic program, or the Dean/Director of the College, School or Center in which your program is housed.

Disability Accommodations
Students with a documented disability who wish to request academic accommodations must contact Disability Services to discuss accommodation requests and eligibility requirements. Once successfully registered, the student also must notify the course instructor that they wish to access accommodations in the course.

Please contact Disability Services, located within the Student Success Center, at Disability_services@slu.edu or 314/977-3484 to schedule an appointment. Confidentiality will be observed in all inquiries. Once approved, information about the student’s eligibility for academic accommodations will be shared with course instructors via email from Disability Services and viewed within Banner via the instructor’s course roster.

Title IX
Saint Louis University and its faculty are committed to supporting our students and seeking an environment that is free of bias, discrimination, and harassment. If you have encountered any form of sexual misconduct (e.g. sexual assault, sexual harassment, stalking, domestic or dating violence), we encourage you to report this to the University. If you speak with a faculty member about an incident of misconduct, that faculty member must notify SLU’s Title IX coordinator, Anna R. Kratky (DuBourg Hall, room 36; akratky@slu.edu; 314-977-3886) and share the basic facts of your experience with her. The Title IX coordinator will then be available to assist you in understanding all of your options and in connecting you with all possible resources on and off campus.

If you wish to speak with a confidential source, you may contact the counselors at the University Counseling Center at 314-977-TALK. To view SLU’s sexual misconduct policy and for resources, please visit the following web addresses: https://www.slu.edu/general-counsel-home/office-of-institutional-equity-and-diversity/sexual-misconduct-policy

Writing Center
I encourage you to take advantage of the writing services in the Student Success Center. Getting feedback benefits writers at all skill levels. Trained writing consultants can help with any writing, multimedia project, or oral presentation. During the one-on-one consultations, you can work on everything from brainstorming and developing ideas to crafting strong sentences and documenting sources. These services do fill up, so make an appointment early! For more information, or to make, change, or cancel an appointment, call 977-3484 or visit http://www.slu.edu/writingservices.xml

Other Policies/Notes
• If a student has a desired name that is not listed on the course roster, please let me know. Students are encouraged to notify me of their gender pronouns. I use he/him pronouns.
• If a religious holiday that you observe conflicts with an assignment, please let me know in advance so that we may discuss alternative options.
• All papers turned in late (whether response papers or your final paper/project) will be marked down by 1/3 grade per day, unless we made an alternative arrangement in advance.
