

_____ is applying for an Ignatian Teaching Fellowship in the Reinert Center. Before the application can be considered complete, both the applicant's dean and department chair / program director must indicate their support of the application.

Fellowship Information:

The Reinert Center's Ignatian Teaching Fellowship is a competitive, two-term fellowship that prepares and supports faculty teaching in Saint Louis University's Learning Studio, a highly-flexible, technology-rich experimental classroom; teaching a large enrollment (40 or more students) course; or teaching and asynchronous, distance course.

The fellowship provides funding to cover either a $3,000 stipend or a 1-course reduction in teaching in order to support course (re)design and instructional development activities during the term prior to teaching in the fellowship course, and ongoing instructional development support during the term of teaching.

The course development phase of the fellowship (term one) includes participating in weekly meetings with a Reinert Center Instructional Developer; creating and/or revising course documents; and submitting a mid-term and end-of-term report on progress. The teaching phase of the fellowship (term two) includes teaching the course (in the Learning Studio, large enrollment space, or online in Canvas), continued contact with the Reinert Center Instructional Developer, and sharing one's fellowship experience with the larger SLU community.

This application is for the following fellowship period:

Course Development (term 1): Spring 2027

Course Teaching (term 2): Fall 2027
