In accordance with Section 504 of the 1973 Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Saint Louis University prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability and is committed to upholding a policy ensuring equal access and opportunity to academic programs and activities for all otherwise qualified students with disabilities. Within this academic setting equal access is facilitated through the provision of accommodations. One of those accommodations is the use of an audio recorder during lectures.

Such accommodation has been provided to you for the course listed above. By your signature below, you acknowledge that should you employ this accommodation you understand and agree to the following:

- All lecture content is the intellectual property of the instructor and may be used for purposes of the accommodation only.
- Lecture recordings may not be copied, reproduced, publically displayed or provided to other individuals without the express permission of the instructor.
- All lecture recordings will be deleted within 10 days from the last day of class.
- Violation of this agreement may subject you to discipline under the Code of Student Conduct or to liability under federal copyright law.

Please sign and date below and provide a copy of this form to your instructor for their records.
