I. COURSE OBJECTIVE
The students will achieve a clear understanding of Iberian civilization during the Middle Ages. They will also gain a critical view toward Hispanic civilization, which will allow them to reassess and evaluate problems such as social diversity, identity and religious tolerance. Particular issues concerning Spain will be placed in a broader historical context to understand the contribution of Spain to Western Civilization.

II. COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course analyzes the evolution of the Reconquest, the formation of medieval kingdoms, and the final unification of Spain. Special attention will be paid to the interaction (convivencia) between Christians, Muslims, and Jews and their crucial contribution to the formation of the Spanish national character. Reading of primary sources will also be included in the course in order to gain a first-hand knowledge of essential historical issues and to develop an analytical and critical approach towards history.

III. GRADING AND CLASS ATTENDANCE
Class attendance is compulsory during discussion sessions, more than three unjustified absences will lower the final grade. Participation in class will be highly encouraged and it will also be reflected in the final grade. Interaction among students and with the instructor is vital to the over-all success of the course as well as to receiving a good final grade. Class participation is 30 percent of the final grade. This means that anyone who is frequently absent cannot expect a passing grade. Active and prepared participation can bring a B grade up to an A, while lackluster attendance or participation can drop it to a C. One individual and one group presentation (about 15-20 minutes) will be also required. There will be a midterm examination consisting of essay questions designed to test the understanding of historical issues. The exam will be based on the lectures, textbook, required readings, and issues discussed in class.

Writing: Each student must consult with the instructor to select a suitable topic in which he/she will do additional reading and on which he/she will write a term paper (about 24 pages). These topics may be in any area of the history of Spain in the period covered. A serious review of a significant work is an acceptable paper but it should involve a critical interpretation of a historical problem. Papers must follow The Chicago Manual of Style (Chicago, 2003). Additional information from the History Department Style Sheet for Undergraduate Research Papers: http://www.slu.edu/Documents/arts_sciences/history/Style_Sheet.pdf
Late papers will drop one letter-grade for each working day they are late, except in the case of medical or family emergencies that are communicated to me before the paper is due.

The final grade will be weighted approximately as follows:
Midterm exam: 30%
Term paper: 40%
Participation and Presentations: 30%
Total: 100%

V. ASSESSMENT STATEMENT

Saint Louis University - Madrid Campus is committed to excellent and innovative educational practices. In order to maintain quality academic offerings and to conform to relevant accreditation requirements, we regularly assess our teaching, services, and programs for evidence of student learning outcomes achievement. For this purpose we keep on file anonymized representative examples of student work from all courses and programs such as: assignments, papers, exams, portfolios, and results from student surveys, focus groups, and reflective exercises. Thus, copies of your work for this course, including any exams, oral presentations, assignments, and submitted papers may be kept on file for institutional research, assessment and accreditation purposes. If you prefer that Saint Louis University-Madrid Campus does not keep your work on file, you will need to communicate your decision in writing to your professor.

VI. ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The University is a community of learning, whose effectiveness requires an environment of mutual trust and integrity, such as would be expected at a Jesuit, Catholic institution. As members of this community, students, faculty, and staff members share the responsibility to maintain this environment. Academic dishonesty violates it. Although not all forms of academic dishonesty can be listed here, it can be said in general that soliciting, receiving, or providing any unauthorized assistance in the completion of any work submitted toward academic credit is dishonest. It not only violates the mutual trust necessary between faculty and students but also undermines the validity of the University’s evaluation of students and takes unfair advantage of fellow students. Further, it is the responsibility of any student who observes such dishonest conduct to call it to the attention of a faculty member or administrator.

Examples of academic dishonesty would be copying from another student, copying from a book or class notes during a closed-book exam, submitting materials authored by or editorially revised by another person but presented as the student’s own work, copying a passage or text directly from a published source without appropriately citing or recognizing that source, taking a test or doing an assignment or other academic work for another student, tampering with another student’s work, securing or supplying in advance a copy of an examination without the knowledge or consent of the instructor, and colluding with another student or students to engage in an act of academic dishonesty.

Where there is clear indication of such dishonesty, a faculty member or administrator has the responsibility to apply appropriate sanctions. Investigations of violations will be conducted in accord with standards and procedures of the school or college through which the course or research is offered. Recommendations of sanctions to be imposed will be made to the dean of the school or college in which the student is enrolled. Possible sanctions for a violation of academic integrity include, but are not limited to, disciplinary probation, suspension, and dismissal from the University. VII. DISABILITIES ACCOMMODATION STATEMENT

In recognition that people learn in a variety of ways and that learning is influenced by multiple factors (e.g., prior experience, study skills, learning disability), resources to support student success are available on campus. Students who think they might benefit from these resources can find out more about:

- Course-level support (e.g., faculty member, departmental resources, etc.) by asking your course instructor.
- University-level support (e.g., tutoring/writing services, Disability Services) by visiting the Academic Dean's Office (San Ignacio Hall) or by going to http://spain.slu.edu/academics/learning_resources.html.

Students who believe that, due to a disability, they could benefit from academic accommodations are encouraged to contact Disability Services at +34 915 54 58 58, ext. 204, send an e-mail to counselingcenter-madrid@slu.edu, or to visit the Counseling Office (Padre Rubio Hall). Confidentiality will be observed in all inquiries. Course instructors support student accommodation requests when an approved letter from Disability Services has been received and when students discuss these accommodations with the instructor after receipt of the approved letter.
