ENGLISH

Study of English includes literature, rhetoric, and professional and creative writing. Deepen your understanding and appreciation of literature’s imaginative value, gain a global perspective on English literature as a world literature, and hone your skills to express your ideas in a range of contexts. The English major is structured around study of literature in historical context, as an art form, and as cultural critique. Advanced seminars explore major periods and authors in British, U.S., and postcolonial literature, as well as significant themes and theories (e.g., nature, travel literature, war and literature, gender and sexuality, ecocriticism).

To complete the major, students are required to take courses in the following areas:
+ Form and Genre
+ History and Context
+ Rhetoric and Argumentation

In keeping with the Jesuit tradition of promoting the development of the whole person, English major requirements include the Arts & Sciences Core Curriculum. The Core provides a framework for acquiring a broad foundation of knowledge in the humanities, natural sciences and social sciences.

Our curriculum covers notable authors as well as literature from the classics to the most innovative contemporary media. But our vibrant campus is also alive with readings, performances and poetry slams, and conferences that resonate with our love of literature.

Because words matter, understanding the how and why will give you the ability to use them to the greatest effect in whatever you choose to do next in your career.
