| 1 | SLU outcome: Assess relevant literature or scholarly contributions in the field(s) of study.
PhD Outcome: Graduates will apply evidence based literature to leadership practices.
*Ph.D. candidate students have individual plans related to their goals for the use of their doctoral degree.
Student Development Introduced
EDL 6110 – District Administration
EDL 5100 – Foundations of Education Administration
Student Development Developed and Reinforced
Additional courses related to their individual program plans | In which courses will faculty intentionally work to foster some level of student development toward achievement of the outcome? Please clarify the level at which student development is expected in each course (e.g., introduced, developed, reinforced, achieved, etc.). | Artifacts of Student Learning (What)
1. What artifacts of student learning will be used to determine if students have achieved this outcome?
2. In which courses will these artifacts be collected? | 1. A team of two EDL faculty members will assess the comprehensive exams using a rubric. An additional faculty member will review exams when there is a question about the response. |
| 1 | 1. Comprehensive Exams
2. EDL 6950 | 1. What process will be used to evaluate the artifacts, and by whom?
2. What tools(s) (e.g., a rubric) will be used in the process?
Note: Please include any rubrics as part of the submitted plan documents. |
| SLU Outcome: Apply the major practices, theories, or research methodologies in the field(s) of study. | Student Development Introduced
*EDL 6110 – District Level Administration
*EDL 5100 – Foundations of Education Administration | 1. Coursework
Stance Paper from EDL 5100
*Other leadership course application coursework (i.e. case studies, final papers, analyzes etc) | 1. Faculty who teach the courses will score the coursework and provide feedback to students and other faculty members.
2. A rubric is used to assess student work. (See attached EDL 5100 Stance Paper Rubric; Other rubrics to be added) |

Use of Assessment Data

1. How and when will analyzed data be used by program faculty to make changes in pedagogy, curriculum design, and/or assessment practices?

Because of the importance of continuous program improvement, the program faculty embeds the process of assessment in each monthly faculty meeting. Depending on the month and availability of the data identified in the assessment cycle term, the faculty examines and analyzes the data. Following this analysis, faculty members discuss the strengths and weaknesses in the data, and then, make recommendations for improving pedagogy, curriculum design, and/or assessment practices. A small team of faculty who teaches courses in the Ph.D. program first reviews the data; presents the findings and recommendations to whole program faculty; and then solicits feedback that informs the annual assessment report.

2. How and when will the program faculty evaluate the impact of assessment-informed changes made in previous years?

Part of the design in the Education Leadership Ph.D. program’s annual assessment cycle is to ensure an evaluation of the impact of assessment-informed changes in previous years occurs. In the cycle, this is accounted for by looping data and focus of program student learning outcomes. For example, in 2020, 2021, and 2023, the program faculty will analyze data from comprehensive exams taken by Ph.D. program students. In the first year, the focus is on student learning outcomes 1 and 2; the second year of looking at data focuses on learning outcomes 2 and 3-4; and the final year of looking at comprehensive exam data of the defined assessment cycle focuses on student learning outcome 1 and 5. Each year in the fall during “Moving Forward Day,” faculty who teach in the Ph.D. program analyze the defined data and discuss the impact of the changes made (if any) from previous years. This requires cross-examination of the annual assessment reports.

Additional Questions

1. On what schedule/cycle will program faculty assess each of the program’s student learning outcomes? (Please note: It is not recommended to try to assess every outcome every year.)

Using the 2022 Assessment Plan for the Educational Leadership Ph.D. Program, the faculty will assess each of the program’s student learning outcomes on the following cycle:

<tr>

2. Describe how, and the extent to which, program faculty contributed to the development of this plan.

All members of the Education Leadership Faculty worked on the SOE’s “Growing Together Day” in February 2020 and “Moving Forward Day” in September 2020 to discuss and write this Assessment Plan for the Educational Leadership Ph.D. Program. Between these dates, faculty worked in smaller groups to provide feedback for improving the plan and discuss the alignment of curriculum, assessment data, and instruction. Final discussions and revision of the plan were conducted November 2020; then again in August 2021.

IMPORTANT: Please remember to submit any rubrics or other assessment tools along with this plan.
